Health Office,

Bridlington.

June, 1968.

To the Chairman and Councillors,
Urban District of Drifffield.

Mr. Chairman, Lady and Gentlemen,

I have pleasure in presenting the Annual Report for 1967.

The Registrar General's figure for the mid-year population was 6,920, the same figure as last year. There were 119 live births and 143 deaths compared with 112 live births and 156 deaths in 1966. In considering the number of deaths it must be borne in mind that there are in the town an Old Person's Home and a Hospital Geriatric Unit to which elderly persons from all parts of the East Riding are admitted. After six months they are regarded by the Registrar General as being permanent residents of the town. The crude death rate of the town thus becomes abnormally high. The adjusted rate, corrected to allow for the age structure of the population, at 11.8 per 1,000 population is very close to the figure for England and Wales of 11.2 per 1,000.

Examination of causes of death reveals the expected pattern, with diseases of the heart and circulation, and cancer predominating.

There were four deaths of infants under one year, giving an infant mortality rate of 33.61 per 1,000 live births. At first sight this compares unfavourably with the national rate of 18.3 per 1,000 live births. However, when one is dealing with very small numbers considerable fluctuations are encountered from year to year. The average infant mortality rate for the five year period 1963 - 1967 is very close to the national figure.

Measles was prevalent during the early part of the year. It was of a mild form and there were no deaths. Other infectious diseases do not call for special comment.

The sanitary circumstances of the district changed little during the year. Of 52 samples of the town's water supply sent for bacteriological examination, 51 were satisfactory, and the remaining one was satisfactory on repeat sampling.

Sewage continued to be treated at the Riverhead Sewage Works and a further seven pail closets were converted to water closets, leaving only twelve pail closets in the district.

Forty five new houses were built by private enterprise during the year and a further thirty six were in course of erection at the end of the year. Sixteen houses were improved with the aid of Standard (14) or Discretionary (2) Grants.

One hundred per cent meat inspection continued to be carried out. The number of animals killed was slightly less than in 1966.

In presenting this Report I would like to express my thanks to Mr. Marsh and the staff for their work and help during the year, and also to the Chairman and Members of the Public Health Committee for their constant interest and support.

I am,

Yours faithfully,

R. SCHOFIELD
